EXTRACTS FROM ROOSEVELT'S LETTER.

"The report is inaccurate and misleading in various important respects, and I desire to make certain corrections in reference to statements which appear therein, and the subsequent debate."

"If the limitation of the use of the Secret Service which your committee upholds had been in force at the time of which I speak, the Senator, the Representative, and the various men of wealth and high political influence who were convicted would all have escaped punishment. I hold that such an outcome would have been in the interest of the criminals only.'

"Senator Hemenway states that 'there are more than 3,000 men now in the Secret Service and inspection work of the government,' and that in the last few years the number has trebled, and that if they were to march through the streets of Washington they would make an 'army.'

These statements are not in accordance with the facts. I submit to you herewith a substantially, although not entirely, accurate statement of the number of men employed on 'secret service work' or 'criminal investigation work' during the year that has just passed, as compared with the years 1901-1902."

But in your report, and the subsequent debate, direct and indirect attacks are made upon the Secret Service, with a curious persistency and a curious indifference to the fact that your committee recommends that a precisely similar secret service to the one attacked be now established in the Department of Justice.'

"Senator Hemenway quoted the Secretary of the Interior as the authority for the statement that but one Secret Service man was ever detailed to the Interior Department. This statement of Senator Hemenway is completely misleading. The Secret Service men were used in the Interior Department cases at the request of the Secretary of the Interior, but for convenience in operation they were assigned to and paid by the Department of Justice.'

"Your committee in its report states that it has never been the intention of Congress to build up a 'spy' system. The next sentence, however, advocates the building up of precisely the 'spy' system in the Department of Justice."

'Congress last year forbade by law the use of the Secret Service men to put a stop to crime aside from counterfeiting, and thereby not only hampered justice in other departments, but deprived the Secretary of the Treasury, the official guardian of a billion and a half of the nation's actual money, of the power effectively to exercise that guardianship."

After fruitless discussion, extending over a period of several weeks, the proposition of consolidation with the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church was bluntly and flatly rejected by the congregation of the Washington Heights Presbyterian Church last evening.

"The downtown church did not ask us to unite with them; they asked us to merge our identity with theirs," was the spirit of the report of the conferees, and after an absolute statement that "the differences existing are essential and vital," the congregation adopted the report without a dissenting vote.

The congregation acted as a unit on the matter. Speeches expressive of regret and deprecating the demands of the New York avenue church were made, but not one voice was raised in favor of
